

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

5 An extract and procedure for extracting the polar components from plants of the Family Brassicaceae, specifically but not limited to the genus Lepidium. The extraction has an increased polar and decreased lipidic constituent concentration with an increased pharmacocological ability to affect growth parameters relative to the parent material. The concentration of polar constituents makes the product more amenable to preparations that increase growth parameters in aquaculture.